

palgrave
macmillan

The Palgrave Handbook of Gender and Healthcare

Second Edition

---

Edited by

Ellen Kuhlmann and Ellen Annandale

The Palgrave Handbook of Gender and Healthcare

Also by Ellen Kuhlmann

MODERNISING HEALTH CARE: Reinventing Professions, the State and the Public

RETHINKING PROFESSIONAL GOVERNANCE: International Directions in Healthcare (co-edited)

Also by Ellen Armandale

WOMEN'S HEALTH AND SOCIAL CHANGE

GENDER INEQUALITIES IN HEALTH (co-edited)

THE SOCIOLOGY OF HEALTH AND MEDICINE

The Palgrave Handbook of Gender and Healthcare

Second Edition

Edited by

Ellen Kuhlmann

University of Bath, UK

and

Ellen Annandale

University of Leicester, UK

palgrave
macmillan

Selection and editorial matter © Ellen Kuhlmann and Ellen Annandale 2010, 2012

All rights reserved. No reproduction, copy or transmission of this publication may be made without written permission.

No portion of this publication may be reproduced, copied or transmitted save with written permission or in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, or under the terms of any licence permitting limited copying issued by the Copyright Licensing Agency, Saffron House, 6–10 Kirby Street, London EC1N 8TS.

Any person who does any unauthorized act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

The authors have asserted their rights to be identified as the authors of this work in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

First published in hardback in 2010 and second edition as paperback 2012 by PALGRAVE MACMILLAN

Palgrave Macmillan in the UK is an imprint of Macmillan Publishers Limited, registered in England, company number 785998, of Houndmills, Basingstoke, Hampshire RG21 6XS.

Palgrave Macmillan in the US is a division of St Martin's Press LLC, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10010.

Palgrave Macmillan is the global academic imprint of the above companies and has companies and representatives throughout the world.

Palgrave® and Macmillan® are registered trademarks in the United States, the United Kingdom, Europe and other countries.

ISBN 978-1-137-01514-3 ISBN 978-1-137-29540-8 (eBook)

DOI 10.1007/978-1-137-29540-8

This book is printed on paper suitable for recycling and made from fully managed and sustained forest sources. Logging, pulping and manufacturing processes are expected to conform to the environmental regulations of the country of origin.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

A catalog record for this book is available from the Library of Congress.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
21 20 19 18 17 16 15 14 13 12

Contents

Figures	viii
Tables	ix
Boxes	x
Notes on Contributors	xi
Preface to the Second Edition	xxii
Introduction
Bringing Gender to the Heart of Health Policy, Practice and Research Ellen Kuhlmann and Ellen Anandale	1
Part I Gendering Healthcare and Policy	19
1. Re-visiting Gender Justice in Health and Healthcare Sarah Payne and Lesley Doyal	21
2. Gender Equality and International Health Policy Planning Shelly N. Abdool, Claudia García-Moreno and Avni Amin	36
3. Gender Equity and Health Sector Reforms in Low and Middle-income Countries Hilary Standing	56
4. Gendering Health Human Resource Policy and Management Ellen Kuhlmann, Ivy Lynn Bourgeault, Christa Larsen and     Toni Schofield	72
5. Gender-sensitive Indicators for Healthcare Vivian Lin and Helen L'Orange	92
6. Gender Assessment: European Health Research Policies Ineke Klinge	111
7. Gender and the Medicalization of Healthcare Susan E. Bell and Anne E. Figert	127

Part II	The Social Patterning of Health by Gender	143
8.	Changing Gendered Patterns of Morbidity and Mortality Chloe E. Bird, Martha E. Lang and Patricia P. Rieker	145
9.	Reproductive Regimes: Governing Gendered Bodies Elizabeth Ettorre and Carol Kingdon	162
10.	Coronary Heart Disease: Gendered Public Health Discourses Elianne Riska	178
11.	Gender and Mental Health Joan Busfield	192
12.	HIV/AIDS and Gender Leah Gilbert and Terry-Ann Selikow	209
13.	Gender and End-of-life Care Alex Broom	224
Part III	Equity and Access to Healthcare	239
14.	Gender and Help-seeking: Towards Gender-comparative Studies Kate Hunt, Joy Adamson and Paul Galdas	241
15.	Gender Differences in Healthcare Utilization in Later Life Kakoli Roy and Anoshua Chaudhuri	256
16.	Men's Health and Well-being Toni Schofield	273
17.	The Healthcare Needs of Gay and Lesbian Patients Jane Edwards	290
18.	Mothers and Children: What Does Their Health Tell Us about Gender? Tulsi Patel	306
19.	Gender, Health, Care and Place: Living in Rural and Remote Communities Ivy Lynn Bourgeault and Rebecca Sutherns	321
Part IV	Gendering the Organization and Delivery of Healthcare	337
20.	The New Management of Healthcare: 'Rational' Performance and Gendered Actors Jim Barry, Elisabeth Berg and John Chandler	339

21.	Old Age Care Policies: Gendering Institutional Arrangements across Countries Viola Burau, Hildegard Theobald and Robert H. Blank	355
22.	Primary Prevention and Health Promotion: Towards Gender-sensitive Interventions Petra Kolip	371
23.	Gender and Maternal Healthcare Jane Sandall, Cecilia Benoit, Edwin van Teijlingen, Sirpa Wrede, Eugene Declercq and Raymond De Vries	389
24.	Women's Health Centres: Creating Spaces and Institutional Support Pat Armstrong	405
Part V	The Professions as Catalyst of Gender-sensitive Healthcare	421
25.	Women in the Medical Profession: International Trends Elianne Riska	423
26.	Sex, Gender and Health: Developments in Medical Research Toine Lagro-Janssen	439
27.	Gender Mainstreaming at the Cross-roads of Eastern-Western Healthcare Ling-fang Cheng, Ellen Kuhlmann and Ellen Annandale	455
28.	Nursing: Globalization of a Female-gendered Profession Sirpa Wrede	471
29.	Complementary and Alternative Medicine: Gender and Marginality Sarah Cant and Peter Watts	488
	Conclusion
	Gender and Healthcare: The Future Ellen Annandale and Ellen Kuhlmann	505
	Index	521

Figures

5.1	The health information framework	97
8.1	Constrained choice model	151
9.1	International caesarean section rates	166
9.2	Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (UK) register data for IVF and ICSI	170
10.1	Typology of masculinities and CHD risks constructed in scientific discourse	183
11.1	The changing boundaries of mental illness	195
22.1	Proportion of regular smokers 15 years and older in Germany	378
22.2	Death rate for cancer of the lungs, bronchial tubes and trachea in Germany	379

Tables

4.1	Governance of HHR in Canada, Australia and Germany	80
4.2	Health workforce patterns in Canada, Australia and Germany	81
5.1	Practical steps for improving linkages between researchers and policy-makers	106
10.1	Ischaemic heart disease mortality by gender and country	184
11.1	One-month prevalence of selected mental disorders, USA, 1980–4	197
11.2	Prevalence rates of selected mental disorders, UK students 1993	198
13.1	Life expectancy at birth in selected countries, 2009	226
13.2	The three leading causes of death in selected countries by sex	227
13.3	Suicide rates (per 100,000) in selected countries by sex	228
17.1	Areas of focus and areas of neglect in the health of non-heterosexual women and men	292
17.2	Steps to improve healthcare for LGBTI populations	302
18.1	Child mortality rates in selected countries, 2005	307
18.2	Women and child health indicators in selected Indian states, 1998	311
21.1	Institutional configurations and trajectories of institutional change in old age care policies	366
22.1	Life expectancy at birth and potential years of life lost (PYLL) in selected countries, 2005	374
23.1	Maternity morbidity data, Canada, 2002–3; 2005–6	392
25.1	Women in the medical profession in selected OECD countries in 2006	426
25.2	Proportion (%) of women doctors in selected medical specialties in Finland, Sweden, Lithuania, the United States, and the United Kingdom	430
27.1	Composition of the medical and nursing workforce in Taiwan, 2008	460
27.2	Students of healthcare by percentage of women, 1997 and 2008	461

Boxes

2.1	Involving people living with HIV in delivery of HIV/AIDS services in Kenya	43
2.2	Health Workers for Change: Gender-sensitive interventions for health infrastructure and quality of care	45
2.3	Mainstreaming gender into the Kenya national HIV/AIDS strategic plan: Gender and HIV/AIDS Technical Subcommittee and the POLICY Project, Kenya	48
3.1	Gender impact of user charges under HSR in sub-Saharan Africa	62
3.2	Latin America: Opening up spaces for integrating gender into HSR	64
5.1	Promotion of the equitable use of eye services and reduction of eye disease and blindness in Tanzania	95
5.2	The US National Report Card on Women's Health	101
5.3	Preventing domestic violence in Australia	103
24.1	Centres of Excellence for Women's Health – what do they contribute?	410
26.1	Integration of gender into the basic medical curriculum	448

Contributors

Shelly N. Abdool holds an MA in Political Science (Gender and Development) from the University of Western Ontario, Canada. She is currently a technical officer in the Department of Gender, Women and Health at the World Health Organization. Her work focuses on developing practical tools to build capacities of national partners to mainstream gender analysis methods in health sector activities and support country partners in their efforts to improve the health of women and men through gender-responsive plans, policies and actions. Her publications also date back to work on women's health in rural India (Journal of International Women's Studies, 2005).

Joy Adamson holds a PhD in Social Medicine from Bristol University, UK. She has a background in both qualitative research methods and epidemiology and is currently Senior Lecturer in the Department of Health Sciences, University of York, UK. Key areas of research are health and healthcare of older people and macro and micro determinants of healthcare consultation. Recent publications include two articles in the British Journal of General Practice: 'Exploring the Impact of Patient Views on "Appropriate" Use of Services and Help-seeking: Mixed Method Study' (2009) and 'Age and Gender Interaction in Reported Help Seeking in Response to Chest Pain' (2008).

Avni Amin holds a PhD in International Health from Johns Hopkins University, Bloomberg School of Hygiene and Public Health, Baltimore, USA. She is currently a technical officer in the Department of Gender, Women and Health at the World Health Organization. Her work focuses on evidence generation on gender and health, and supporting gender mainstreaming in technical programmes such as HIV/AIDS. Her most recent publication dates back to work on gender and rights-based approaches to addressing HIV/AIDS among sex workers in India including a paper Risk, Morality, and Blame (Washington DC: Center for Health and Gender Equity, 2004).

Ellen Annandale holds a PhD in Sociology from Brown University, USA. She is Professor of Sociology at the University of Leicester, UK, and the Editor-in-Chief of Social Science & Medicine. Her work focuses on the relationship between feminist and gender theories and the way that questions about the health of women and men are framed and studied. Her most recent publications are Women's Health and Social Change (Routledge, 2009) and the co-edited (with Elianne Riska) edition of Current Sociology, New Connections: Towards a Gender-inclusive Approach to Women's and Men's Health (Sage, 2009).

Pat Armstrong holds a PhD in Sociology from Carleton University, Ottawa, and is a Professor in Sociology at York University, Canada. She holds a Canadian Health Services Research Foundation/Canadian Institutes of Health Research Chair in Health Services and chairs Women and Health Care Reform. Her research focuses on gender and health services, using a political economy perspective. Most recently, she has co-authored Critical to Care: The Invisible Women in Health Services (University of Toronto Press, 2008), About Canada: Health Care (Fernwood, 2008); 'They Deserve Better': The Long Term Care Experience in Canada and Scandinavia (CCPA, 2009) and co-edited Women's Health: Intersections of Policy, Research, and Practice (Women's Press, 2008).

Jim Barry holds a PhD in Sociology with Politics from Birkbeck College, University of London, UK. He is Professor of Gender and Organization Studies at the University of East London. Research interests include gender, new public management and social movements. He is co-author (with Mike Dent and Maggie O'Neill) of Gender and the Public Sector (Routledge, 2003), was Guest Editor of the special issue of Equal Opportunities International, 'Gender, Management and Governance in the Public Sector' in 2007 and co-author (with Elisabeth Berg and John Chandler) of 'Essentially Political: Gender and the Politics of Care in Mumbai' in the International Feminist Journal of Politics (2010). He is Associate Editor of Gender, Work & Organization and member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Equal Opportunities International.

Susan E. Bell holds a PhD in Sociology from Brandeis University, USA. She is currently Professor of Sociology and A. Myrick Freeman Professor of Social Sciences at Bowdoin College in Maine, USA. Her scholarship investigates the experience of illness, women's health, and visual and performative representations of the politics of cancer, medicine and women's bodies. Her most recent publications are 'Artworks, Collective Experience, and Claims for Social Justice' (with Alan Radley, Sociology of Health and Illness, 2007), and DES Daughters: Embodied Knowledge and the Transformation of Women's Health Politics (Temple, 2009).

Cecilia Benoit holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of Toronto, Canada. She is currently a Scientist at the Centre for Addictions Research of British Columbia and Professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Victoria. Apart from ongoing research focused on the occupation of midwifery and the organization of maternity care in Canada and internationally, she is involved in a variety of projects that employ mixed methodologies to investigate the health of different vulnerable populations. Her most recent publication is a co-edited edition of Current Sociology, 'Comparative Perspectives on the Professions' (2009, with Ivy Lynn Bourgeault).

Elisabeth Berg holds a PhD and is a Professor of Sociology in the Department of Human Work Science, Luleå University of Technology, Sweden, and Visiting Professor at the University of East London, UK. She is a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of the journal Equal Opportunities International. Her work focuses on the relationship between gender, management and professionals. She has published on 'Women's Positioning in a Bureaucratic Environment: Combining Employment and Mothering' (2003) and 'New Public Management and Social Work in Sweden and England', International Journal of Sociology and Social Policy (2008, with John Chandler and Jim Barry).

Chloe E. Bird holds a PhD from the University of Illinois, Urbana, USA. She is Senior Sociologist at the RAND Corporation, Professor of Sociology at Pardee RAND Graduate School, USA, and Associate Editor of the journal Women's Health Issues. Her work focuses on gender differences in health and healthcare. Her recent publications include a co-authored article on 'Neighbourhood Socioeconomic Status and Biological "Wear & Tear" in a Nationally Representative Sample of US Adults', in the Journal of Epidemiology and Community Health (2010), and the Handbook of Medical Sociology, 6th edition (co-edited with Peter Conrad, Allen Fremont and Stefan Timmermans, Vanderbilt University Press, 2010).

Robert H. Blank holds a PhD in Political Science from the University of Maryland, USA. He is currently a Research Scholar at the New College of Florida, USA, and Professor at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand. He has published numerous articles and more than 35 books on health and biomedical policy including End of Life Decision Making (MIT, 2007, edited with Janna C. Merrick), Comparative Health Policy, third edition (Palgrave Macmillan, 2010, with Viola Burau) and Condition Critical (Fulcrum, 2007, with Richard D. Lamm). Current areas of interest include health priority setting, medical technology assessment and neuroscience policy.

Ivy Lynn Bourgeault holds a PhD in Community Health from the University of Toronto, Canada. She is currently Professor of Health Sciences at the University of Ottawa, CIHR/Health Canada Research Chair in Health Human Resource Policy, and Scientific Director of the Population Health Improvement and Ontario Health Human Resources Research Networks. She has edited (with Robert Dingwall and Raymond De Vries) The Sage Handbook of Qualitative Methods in Health Research (Sage, 2010).

Alex Broom holds a PhD in Sociology from La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia. He is Associate Professor of Sociology and Australia Research Council Future Fellow at the School of Social Science, the University of Queensland, Australia. He is a Visiting Professor at Jawaharlal Nehru University, India and Brunel University, London, UK and Director of Social Science Research for the Network of Researchers in the Public Health of Complementary and Alternative Medicine. Recent books include: Traditional, Complementary and Alternative Medicine and Cancer Care (Routledge, 2007), Men's Health: Body, Identity and Social Context (Wiley-Blackwell, 2009), and Health, Culture and Religion in South Asia (Routledge, 2011).

Viola Burau holds a PhD from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. She is Associate Professor of Public Policy in the Department of Political Science, University of Aarhus, Denmark. Her work analyses, mostly from a cross-country comparative perspective, the policies and politics of welfare services and the governance of professions. Her most recent publications include the co-authored (with Hildegard Theobald and Robert H. Blank) research monograph Governing Home Care (Edward Elgar, 2007), 'Governing Medical Performance' (special issue of Health Economics, Policy and Law, 2009) and the co-authored (with Robert H. Blank) third edition of Comparative Health Policy (Palgrave Macmillan, 2010).

Joan Busfield, who initially trained as a clinical psychologist at the Tavistock Clinic, London, has a PhD from the University of Essex, UK, where she is a Professor of Sociology. Her books include Men, Women and Madness: Understanding Gender and Mental Disorder (Macmillan, 1996), Health and Health Care in Modern Britain (Oxford University Press, 2000) and Rethinking the Sociology of Mental Illness (ed., Blackwell, 2001). Her recent research has focused on the pharmaceutical industry; for instance, 'Pills, Power, People: Sociological Understandings of the Pharmaceutical Industry' (Sociology, 2006).

Sarah Cant holds an Msc (Econ) in Sociology as Applied to Medicine and is a Principal Lecturer in Sociology and Social Science at Canterbury Christ Church University, UK. Her research has focused on healthcare that stands outside state provision, namely the private sector and complementary and alternative medicine (CAM). In particular, she has developed an interest in the processes of professionalization, focusing on questions of power, legitimacy and trust. Her most recent funded research in this area has centred on the use of CAM by nurses and midwives and is published in Social Science & Medicine (2011).

John Chandler holds a PhD from Luleå University of Technology, Sweden. He is a Reader in Organization Studies in the Business School, University of East London, UK. His work currently focuses on public services management and the social consequences of managerialism in various contexts, particularly higher education, health and social care. Recent publications include an article in Qualitative Research in Accounting and Management (2008) entitled 'Academics as Professionals or Managers?' and another (with Jim Barry and Elisabeth Berg) in Public Administration (2007), 'Women's Movements and New Public Management: Higher Education in Sweden and England'.

Anoshua Chaudhuri holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Washington, USA, and an MA in Economics from the Delhi School of Economics, India. She is currently Associate Professor in the Department of Economics, San Francisco State University. Her research is in health economics with a focus on global health. Recent work includes disparities in health outcomes, health payments and health services utilization among children and the elderly as a result of health programmes and policies in South and South-east Asian countries. She is also working on issues around intergenerational support for the elderly in South Asia and among the South Asian Diaspora.

Ling-fang Cheng holds a PhD from the University of Essex, UK. Currently she is Associate Professor in the Graduate Institute of Gender Studies, Kaohsiung Medical University, Taiwan and the Editor-in-Chief of Gender Equality Quarterly (Ministry of Education, Taiwan). Her work focuses on gender relations in the medical profession, professional–user relations, and gender and health issues. As a member of the Advisory Committee for Gender Equity at the Ministry of Education, Taiwan, she is actively involved in integrating gender into medical and nursing education. Her most recent publication is A Dialogue between Medicine and Society (Qunxue, 2008).

Raymond De Vries holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of California, Davis, and is Professor in the Bioethics Program and the Departments of Obstetrics and Gynaecology and Medical Education at the University of Michigan Medical School, USA. He is currently studying the history of bioethics; regulation of science; international research ethics; difficulties of informed consent; bioethics and the problem of suffering; and ethics of non-medically indicated surgical birth. He is author of A Pleasing Birth: Midwifery and Maternity Care in the Netherlands (Temple University Press, 2005), and co-editor of The View from Here: Bioethics and the Social Sciences (Blackwell, 2007).

Eugene Declercq holds a PhD in Political Science from Florida State University, USA. He is a Professor of Community Health Sciences and Assistant Dean for Doctoral Education at the Boston University School of Public Health and Professor in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology of the Boston University School of Medicine.

Lesley Doyal holds an MSc (Econ) from the London School of Economics. She is Emeritus Professor in the School for Policy Studies, University of Bristol, UK, and Visiting Professor, University of Cape Town, South Africa. She is especially interested in gender and health issues from international and comparative perspectives, and has recently completed a series of studies of HIV-positive African migrants in London which were set within a paradigm of intersectionality. Publications from this work have appeared in Culture, Health and Sexuality, Social Science & Medicine and Sexualities. She is currently finishing a book, Living with HIV and Dying from AIDS.

Jane Edwards holds a PhD in the Sociology of Health and Illness from the University of Adelaide, Australia. She has a long-standing interest in the relationship between gender, sexuality and health and between 2004 and 2008 was a member of the South Australian Ministerial Advisory Committee on Gay and Lesbian Health. Currently, she is with the Centre for Work and Life at the University of South Australia undertaking research on the impact of work-life issues on sustainable lifestyles.

Elizabeth Ettorre holds a PhD in Sociology from the London School of Economics. She is currently Professor of Sociology in the School of Sociology and Social Policy, University of Liverpool, UK. Her work focuses on women and health. In this area, she has developed specific interests in reproduction, drugs, embodiment and depression. Her most recent publications are Culture Bodies and the Sociology of Health (Ashgate, 2010), Revisioning Women and Drugs: Gender Power and the Body (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007) and Reproductive Genetics, Gender and the Body (Routledge, 2002).

Anne E. Figert holds a PhD in Sociology from Indiana University, USA. She is currently Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology, Loyola University, Chicago, USA. Her work focuses on expertise, medicalization and HIV/AIDS service provision. Her recent publications include articles on medicalization, HIV/AIDS housing policy and on the relationship between scientific and religious authority.

Paul Galdas holds a PhD in Nursing from the University of Leeds, UK. He is currently Senior Lecturer in the Department of Health Sciences at the University of York, UK. His scholarly work focuses on the intersections of gender and ethnicity with men's health-related behaviours and experiences, with a particular focus on cardiovascular health and the South Asian community.

Claudia García-Moreno is a physician from Mexico with a Masters in Community Medicine from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK. She was involved in the negotiations for the Plan of Action of the ICPD in 1994 and the Beijing Declaration and Platform of Action in 1995 and has led WHO's work on gender and health and on violence against women. She coordinated the WHO Multi-Country Study on Women's Health and Domestic Violence, initiated and chaired the Sexual Violence Research Initiative and is on the editorial board of several public health journals, including Development in Practice and Reproductive Health Matters.

Leah Gilbert holds a PhD as well as an MPH. She is Professor of Health Sociology in the Department of Sociology, University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. She has published widely on social aspects of dentistry, the role of pharmacy in primary healthcare, and medical and healthcare pluralism. Her current research focuses on health professionals in the context of HIV/AIDS, and the social complexity of anti-retroviral therapy. She is one of the authors (with Terry-Ann Selikow and Liz Walker) of Society, Health and Disease in a Time of HIV/AIDS: An Introductory Reader for Health Professionals (Macmillan, 2010).

Kate Hunt holds a PhD from Glasgow University, UK, and is an Honorary Professor in the Division of Community-based Sciences there. She is also a Professorial Fellow at Stirling University, UK. For many years she has conducted research on social and gender inequalities in health and on understandings of health and illness. She currently leads a research programme on Gender and Health at the UK Medical Research Council's Social and Public Health Sciences Unit at Glasgow University. She co-edited (with Ellen Annandale) Gender and Health Inequalities (Open University Press, 2000).

Carol Kingdon holds a PhD in Sociology and is currently a Senior Research Fellow at the Faculty of Health, University of Central Lancashire, UK. Her research areas are midwifery and women's health. She has published widely on aspects of caesarean delivery for maternal request and is the author of Sociology for Midwives (Quay Books, 2009).

Ineke Klinge holds a PhD in Biomedicine. She is currently Associate Professor of Gender/Diversity Medicine at School Caphri, Maastricht University, the Netherlands, and was previously Visiting Professor in Gender Medicine at Göttingen University, Germany. Her research focuses on innovation of biomedical and health research methodologies through integration of sex and gender. Since 2000 she has executed successive projects in the field for the European Commission of which the GenderBasic project was selected as a 'success story' of the 6th Framework Programme. She edited a special volume of Gender Medicine (2007) on 'Bringing Gender Expertise to Biomedical and Health Research'.

Petra Kolip holds a PhD in Psychology. She is Professor of Prevention and Health Promotion at Bielefeld University, Germany. Her research interests pertain to the interaction between the medical system and patients, focusing especially on women's health issues; gender mainstreaming in healthcare systems; and gender-adequate healthcare and prevention. Her most prominent books are (with Ellen Kuhlmann) Gender und Public Health (2005); and (edited with Klaus Hurrelmann) Geschlecht, Gesundheit und Krankheit (2002). She published a Gender Health Report for Germany in 2005 and a Gender Health Report for Switzerland in 2006 (both with Julia Lademann).

Ellen Kuhlmann holds a PhD in Sociology and an MA in Public Health. She is currently Senior Lecturer, Department of Social and Policy Sciences, University of Bath, and Visiting Professor at University Campus Suffolk, UK. Trained as a nurse, she also has extensive clinical experience. Key areas of research are health policy, healthcare organization and management, and the professions, including cross-country comparison and gender-sensitive approaches. Recent publications include Modernising Health Care (Policy Press, 2006) and Rethinking Professional Governance: International Directions in Healthcare (co-edited with Mike Saks, Policy Press, 2008).

Toine Lagro-Janssen holds a PhD in Medicine, is a registered and practising GP and holds a Professorship in Women's Health. She is a Principal Lecturer and Head of the Unit of Women's Health at the Medical Centre, Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands. Her key areas of research are: gender in medical education and professional development; intimate partner violence and sexual abuse; pelvic floor problems; reproductive health issues, especially home delivery; and female students/doctors, careers and leadership.

Martha E. Lang holds a PhD in Sociology from Brown University, USA. She is currently Visiting Assistant Professor in Sociology/Anthropology and Coordinator of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and Transgendered Resources at Guilford College, North Carolina, USA. Her work focuses on the interrelationships of gender, race, class and sexual orientation on health outcomes. Her most recent publication, co-authored with Patricia Rieker and Chloe Bird, is 'Understanding Gender and Health: Old Patterns, New Trends and Future Directions', in the Handbook of Medical Sociology, 6th edition (Vanderbilt University Press, 2010).

Christa Larsen holds a PhD from the University of Essen in Germany and studied sociology, political sciences and economics in Germany and the United States. She is currently the Managing Director of the Institute for Economics, Labour and Culture (IWAK) at Goethe-University Frankfurt, Germany. Her research focuses on regional labour market and skills monitoring, including health human resource planning and management. She is the coordinator of the European Network of Regional Labour Market Monitoring (RLMM) and has developed a monitoring system for nurses in the region of Hesse, Germany. She has also led several European projects on illegal employment in home care.

Vivian Lin holds a MPH and DrPH from the University of California Berkeley, USA. She is Professor of Public Health at La Trobe University in Melbourne, Australia, and has worked previously in health policy for various Australian state governments. She is also Vice President for Scientific Affairs for the International Union for Health Promotion and Education (IUHPE) and a board member of the Cooperative Research Centre on Aboriginal Health. She works closely with the World Health Organization (Western Pacific Regional Office) on health promotion and health systems issues. Her most recent book China Health Policy in Transition, was published bilingually by Peking University Medical Press in 2010.

Helen L'Orange is an Honorary Associate, School of Public Health, La Trobe University, Melbourne, Australia. She has been instrumental in policy development and programme implementation in government at local, national and international levels. This includes consultancies with the WHO on women and health and several years as Head of the Australian Office for the Status of Women. Her most recent publication is the Western Pacific Region Baseline Assessment Report prepared as part of a WHO-wide 2008 baseline assessment of the WHO Strategy on Integrating Gender Analysis and Actions into the work of WHO (2009).

Tulsi Patel is Professor of Sociology and teaches in the Department of Sociology, Delhi School of Economics, Delhi University, India. Her research interests include gender and society, anthropology of reproduction and childbirth knowledge systems, medical sociology, sociology of kinship and family, and old age. She has authored Fertility Behaviour: Population and Society in a Rajasthan Village (Oxford University Press, 2006), and edited The Family in India: Structure and Practice (Sage, 2005) and Sex Selective Abortion in India: Gender, Society and New Reproductive Technologies (Sage, 2007).

Sarah Payne holds a PhD in Social Policy from Bristol University, UK, where she is currently a Professor in Health Policy and Gender in the School for Policy Studies. Her research focuses on gender inequalities in health and gender equity in health policy. Recent studies have explored differences in mental health, suicidal behaviour, colorectal cancer, access to healthcare, as well as gender equity and gender mainstreaming. Her latest publications include The Health of Men and Women (Polity, 2006), and How Can Gender Equity Be Improved through Health Systems? (World Health Organization, 2009).

Patricia P. Rieker holds a PhD in Sociology from the University of Pittsburgh, USA. She is an adjunct Professor of Sociology, Boston University and Associate Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School. Her current work is focused on cross-national comparisons of gender and health, evaluation of public health interventions and the gender gap in child health. Recent publications include a co-authored book (with Chloe E. Bird), Gender and Health: The Effects of Constrained Choices and Social Policies (Cambridge University Press, 2008), and she is a main author of Introduction to Process Evaluation in Tobacco Use, Prevention and Control (US Centers for Disease Control, 2008).

Elianne Riska holds a PhD from Stony Brook University, New York State, USA. She is currently Professor of Sociology at the Swedish School of Social Science, University of Helsinki, Finland. Her recent articles examine gender and medical education in the Handbook of the Sociology of Medical Education (Routledge, 2009) and women physicians in Lithuania in the journal Gender Issues (2008). She has examined men's health in her book Masculinity and Men's Health (Rowman and Littlefield, 2004), and in a chapter on men's mental health in Men's Health (Wiley-Blackwell, 2009), and co-edited a monograph issue (with Ellen Annandale) on gender and health for Current Sociology (2009).

Kakoli Roy holds both a PhD and MA in Economics. She is currently a Senior Economist at the Centers for Disease Control of Prevention (CDC), United